Harris County Clerk's Office to Conduct Logic and Accuracy Testing Ahead of the November 5th General and Special Elections

(HOUSTON, TX) — The Harris County Clerk's Office (HCCO) is reaffirming its dedication to conducting free, fair, and impartial elections by initiating Logic and Accuracy (L&A) testing this week in preparation for the November 5th General and Special Elections. Testing will take place at the new Harris County election headquarters located near George Bush Intercontinental Airport.

"The integrity of our elections begins with transparency, and Logic and Accuracy testing is a fundamental part of that effort," said Harris County Clerk Teneshia Hudspeth. "By openly demonstrating that our voting machines are properly calibrated, we assure the public that all cast ballots will be tabulated correctly."

L&A testing is crucial to ensure that all voting equipment functions as intended, accurately recording and tabulating ballots in compliance with the Texas Election Code and federal election regulations. The L&A test, required under state law, involves representatives from the Democratic and Republican parties who observe every step of the process.

"This testing process is not just about following legal requirements," explained Clerk Hudspeth. "This process is just one example of our office's commitment to fostering trust and ensuring voters understand how we safeguard the electoral process."

HCCO's Elections Department and political entities recently completed a comprehensive review of the ballots, ensuring accuracy in everything from candidate names and propositions to audio and ballot styles. Over 90 federal, state and local political entities will have items on the ballot.

"Security, transparency, and accuracy are the cornerstones of our approach to elections," added Clerk Hudspeth. "Our team works meticulously to ensure that all equipment is functioning properly, and we report 100% accuracy in our testing before we move forward with any election planning."
